1. An official name has not yet been given to the single party of Polish Communists that was formed in December 1948* in Brazil, and it is known merely as "The Party." Although its membership is principally Polish, the leading members hope to expand the group and bring in Slavs who are known Communists or Communist sympathizers. Individuals who had been members of either of the previous factions are being informed that they are either members of "The Party" or no party.
2. Eugenjusz Nafalski, chief of the Technical Personnel Department for the Matarazzo Industries in Sao Paulo, is head of "The Party" in that city. Party meetings are held at various locations, but usually in private homes.
